The Tocil trade has hitherto been carried on by the handicraftsman and the manufacturers therefore reflect it somewhat related by to my questions in to the above particulars.

By executing direct orders the manufacturers find the trade of and take any the credit from the country agents, who in such cases of course would reason with connection with the manufacturer and never purchase from him again.

If we proceed to the manufacturers direct reinforcement, they do not hesitate to offer goods upon orders, but on such cases they won't sell at anything below at the highest quotations and thus his who demands orders, is entirely allowed to the well of the minimus.
